

Global Scholarly Publications

GSP Online

Life Looking Death in the Eye: The Iraqi War as Experienced by a U.S. Army Contractor

$ 30.00

About the Author

Mahir J. Ibrahimov (Ph.D., 1991, The Academy of Social Sciences, Moscow) and postgraduate studies at U.S. Universities, including the John Hopkins. He served in the Soviet Army and witnessed the break-up of the Soviet Union. Dr. Ibrahimov was Vice President of the first American University in Azerbaijan, As a 2006 highly-ranking diplomat he helped to open the first embassy of Azerbaijan in Washington, D.C. and instructed U.S. diplomats in languages and Cultures at The Department of State. As a multi-lingual cultural adviser he provided vital assistance to U.S. forces during OIFII and became the subject of a Defence Department newsreel, "Jack of All Languages."

Dr. Ibrahimov' expertise is in cultural issues of the former Soviet Republics, South-west and central Asia and the Middle East. He is the author of "Invitation to Rain: a Story of the Road Taken Toward Freedom" and numerous other publications.

Vendor Information

Customer Reviews: There are yet no reviews for this product.
Please log in to write a review.